How Platt Shocked Harrison.

The following is told of Mr T. C. Platt's interview the other day with Plesident Harrison in Washington. The parrator is a friend of Mr. Platt, who was present at the interview.

It seems that the President was very hearty in his greeting, and benevolently tried to make Mr. Piatt feel at home. He said that he had received more than one thousand letters from persons living in va-rious parts of the United States asking him to appoint Mr. Platt Secretary of the Treasury. The members of the Republican National Committee had indorsed Mr. Platt. The majority of the members of the Republican State Committee of New York and many of the county committees of the Em-pire State urged Mr. Plate's appointment. Something like lifty members of the Assembly and eighteen members of the State Sen-ate clamored for Mr. Platt. Business men and gentlemen who did not affiliate with any party organizations demanded that Mr. Platt should have the Tressury portfolio. The President thereupon asked Mr. Platt to be Collector of the Port of New York.

Without hesitation Mr. Platt declined. "I have made up my mind," added the President, according to the informant, "that we must have, without delay, a new Collector in the place of Daniel Magone, and I am satisfied that Postmaster Pearson should at once be removed. I want a man for Col-lector who shall be thoroughly familiar with importing and exporting; a man who is well known to the business men of New York and the country; one who is possessed of considerable wealth, so that he will be above temptation, or, in other words, a man whose business and social life is above suspicion. I want a similar man to succeed Postmaster Pearson."

Mr. Platt is not a funny man and seldom laughs, but he seemed exceedingly amused. "Mr. President," he said, "I am going to Florida for a brief rest. If you can find two such men as you want be good enough to send them to me. As the head of a great express company I need such men, and I can afford to pay them double the amount of salary which the government would al-

AND HE STILL HAS HOPE .- "I was shipwrecked, baked in a railroad accident and fired out of a foundry window by a boiler explosion," recently said Wm. S. Mudie, "before I was of age. Since then I have been shot in the neck at Gettysburg, suffered etarvation in Libby prison, fell overboard from a transport off Charleston, and left four of my fingers in the mouth of a shark. I had my right arm broken in two places in a New York riot, and stood on a barrel with a halter round stood on a barrel with a halter round my neck in a Southern town at the outbreak of the late war from suurise to susset. I was buried under the ruins of a building in San Francisco during an earthquake, and dug out after fifty hours of imprisonment. I have been shot at three times, twice by lunatics and once by a highwayman. I was buried two days by a gas explosion in a mine, and narrowly escaped lynching last year in Arizona through mistaken identity. And though I am over 50 and have nearly lost the use of my right leg, have just had, as I understand, all my property, on which there was no insurance, destroyed by fire in a Western town; and the doctor in New York to whom I went last wock for an examination assures me that I will soon be bedridden from rheumatism; nevertheless," he added cheerfully, "while I undoubtedly have met some obstacles in the past, I still refuse to believe that luck is against me."—DaylightLand.

DREDGING VESSELS CAPTURED,-A dispatch from Gloucester C. H., Va., says: Captain Foster, of the steamrr Chesapeake, captured two dredging vessels off Gynn's Island about three o'clock yesterday morning. These boats were under full sail and with out lights. The dredge boats were full of oysters, and fresh oysters were on the decks. The vessels were the Samuel Washington, of Tapabannock, Va., Capt. W. E. White, and the Ostrich, of Crisfield, Md., Captain James H. Bussels. Besides the captains, there were nineteen men in the two crews of the vessels; nine of them are colored men. The vessels were towed into East river, and the men were taken before Justices Lemuel James and A. J. Miller, at Matthews C. H. All were sent on to the grand jury. The captains were bailed for $500 each. The crews are in charge of the sheriff, having failed to give bail of $50 each. Practices in the Supreme Court of Appeals, in the Circuit Court of the city of Alexandria, and in the Circuit and County Courts of the adjoining counties and in the Federal courts. jel8 tf lieved by the legislature of Virginia some years ago of a fine of $500, imposed for violation of the oyster law.

"PIGS IN CLOVER,"

The latest and very best—way ahead of the 13, 14, 15 Puzzle Consists of an enclosure, with three p ritions with openings on alternate sides for pigs (markles) to be driven through, or rather to be persuaded to go through, until all are safely in the pen in the centre. As each individual pig prefers to go any other way than the one you want it to, the problem becomes a difficult one to solve, and ends in a resolve on your part to "door die." Don't try it unless you have time to complete it, as you will not put it down until finished. The best selling artice for years.
